PROBLEM #1

Nobody Knows Your Brand

If people have never heard of you, they can’t buy from you.

FIX IT:

- Publish content on a steady schedule.
- Be active where your audience already spends time.
- Give people something about your brand to remember.

PROBLEM #2

Attracting the Wrong Audience

A bigger following doesn’t always bring more buyers.

FIX IT:

- Pin down exactly who your ideal customer is.
- Learn what they need and what’s holding them back.
- Make content that talks straight to them.

PROBLEM #3

People Don’t See Your Value

If customers can’t tell what makes you different, they’ll judge you on price alone.

FIX IT:

- Spell out what makes you unique.
- Lead with benefits, not just features.
- Give people a clear reason to pick you.

PROBLEM #4

Your Content Gets Views, Not Sales

Attention is a good start, but attention that never turns into action won’t grow your business.

FIX IT:

- Teach before you pitch.
- Link your content to what you sell.
- End every post with a clear call to action.

Customers Don’t Trust Your Brand

People want proof before they hand over their money.

- Share reviews and real customer results.
- Show the people behind the brand.

PROBLEM #6

People Show Interest but Never Buy

Likes, enquiries and website visits count for little if nobody converts.

FIX IT:

- Find the step where customers drop off.
- Answer objections before they come up.
- Make buying quick and easy.

PROBLEM #7

Marketing Without a Strategy

Posting every day isn’t the same as having a strategy.

FIX IT:

- Pick one clear marketing goal.
- Focus on the channels that fit it.
- Track leads, conversions and revenue.
